been ever bestowed upon man is perfect health, and the best way to insure health is to purify your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Eliza A. Condit, 34 Arlington Street, Lowell, Mass., writes: "Every winter and spring my family, including myself, use several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Experience has convinced me that, as a powerful

Blood

Purifier, it is very much superior to any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. All those who are suffering from skin diseases, especially delicate children, are sure to be greatly benefited by its use." J. W. Starr, Lacomia, Iowa, writes:
"For years I was troubled with Serous-ious complaints. I tried several different preparations, which did me little, if any, good. Two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a complete cure. It is my opinion that this medicine is the best blood purifier.

C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H., writes: "For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, which caused great relief when I took medicine, until I was led to believe it was caused by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I have taken several bottles, am greatly benefited, and believe it to be the best of blood purifiers." H. Harris, Cress City, Ramsey (Co.), Dakota, writes: "I have been an infuse sufferer, with Dyspepsia, for the past three years. Six months ago I began to use

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

It has effected an entire cure, and I am now as well as ever."

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Saturday's Meeting—Small Attendance.
Proceedings in Full.

The Mason County Teachers' Association met at the High School building in this city at 9:30 a. m., Saturday, with a very small number in attendance, illustrating the interest taken in the cause of public education. The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock, Professor Kinney in the chair.

After appropriate devotional ceremonies, Professor Kinney, the first on the programme, read "Paul's Defense Before Agrippa." The selection is in harmony with his style of reading, and was delivered in a masterly manner and was highly appreciated by all present.

The query box was opened and one solitary query dropped into it. The wee cowering thing doubtless felt surprised at the interest it created, for it called forth a lively discussion.

Professor Kinney then gave an interesting and instructive talk on the proper books and periodicals for advanced pupils to read.

W. T. Berry gave a very thorough illustration of how he is teaching arithmetic. The others on the programme for this subjected declined to say anything and the subject was freely discussed by several teachers.

In the afternoon, Miss Anna Knox read a well prepared paper on "Recreation for Primary Pupils," which showed how thoroughly she understands the subject. She declined to let it be published. Miss Wallace, not having seen the programme, was not prepared to say anything. Miss Burrows gave an interesting talk on the subject.

Mrs. Ross read in her usual happy style the exceedingly humorous selection, "Ask Mamma."

Mr. Collins gave a very thorough illustration of percentage. Mr. Wilson had nothing to say on the subject.

Professor Kinney read a selection from Mark Twain.

After some discussion of different subjects, the same committee was retained on programme—W. T. Berry, Miss M. Hixson and W. D. Hixson.

Miss Anna Knox read a selection from Whittier which was greatly appreciated.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the same place on the second Saturday in January, 1887.

Pink Points From Washington.

Did you ever think how much it would look to see all the bar-keepers, whisky dealers and distillers of a large town or city with their residences ranged along in a row on a long street, and their customers with their places of abode in a row on the opposite side of the street? What a sight it would be!

How many of these whisky men do you suppose would continue in the business under such conditions? With the effects of their work, direct and indirect, looking them square in the face from day to day, it would safe to say that the majority of them would not stick to the trade twenty-four hours.

How is it possible for any but a supinely selfish man to be engaged in the whisky trade; a trade which wrecks men in mind, body, takes life and inflicts misery from their families, makes of their homes dens of iniquity, want, poverty and woe, and fits their children for alms houses, houses of correction, jails and penitentiaries?

Let the whisky business in all its branches be stripped of what little respectability there may be allowed it by the money made at it, and men would avoid it as they would a pest house. We submit that the only reason the greatest crime of the age is handled so gingerly by courts, churches and society at large, is because the revenues thus derived from it. Divest it of this charm, and there remains nothing but a hideous monster, a curse, a blight, a horror, by the side of which midnight darkness is as day.

We cannot see in what respect the distiller and wholesaler differs from the man who dishes it out by the glassful. Of course they hold themselves a good deal higher, but it is all one and the same business, and should be, in the same esteem by all right-thinking people. The fact is, however, that they are true, nevertheless, that they are handled together and are a necessity to each other. Now, were they all to give up this trade, then would murders and riots stop, for we are sure that in every barrel of whisky a distillery rolls out there is murder for some human being.

THE CHICAGO ANARCHISTS.

Colonel G. R. Ingerson says He Will Have Nothing to Do With Them.—Col. Robert G. Ingerson, says that he is not the same to concern himself in any way with the Anarchists and, therefore, will have nothing whatever to do with it. The certificate of evidence of the bill of exception had at last been issued and the trial date set for the office of the clerk of the criminal court. Tomorrow the paper, or base of paper, will be transcripted to the supreme court. The defense will then proceed to reach the bar of a member of the supreme bench, as the court is now in session, and from him endeavor to secure a supersedesas to restrain the execution.

At the March term of the supreme court the case will be called for consideration. Thus the condemned will be entitled to make his defense, although "a supersedesas may not be granted," a contingency which is, however, not to be reasonably anticipated.

INDIAN RAID.

CUSTER STATION, Mont., Nov. 16.—Notwithstanding this country is patrolled by all the troopers that can be spared from Fort Custer, Indian raids and outlaws continue. On Saturday night a band of Indians crossed the line from Montana to the south of here. At Oliphant's ranch the stable was burned recently and about seventy-five head of good ranch horses were stolen. Some heads were also killed in the choicer portions of the herd, and a few were captured. The trail leads eastward around Wolf mountain, and is now being followed by the rangers of that vicinity. This raid was undoubtedly made by Indians. A few days ago the traps picked up a small lot of worn out horses, which were evidently left behind by the Indians and had been dropped there because they could not be driven in a hurried march.

POLITICS IN ENGLAND.

LORD SALISBURY GETTING HIS PARTY IN TROUBLE.

The Government's Position on the Bulgarian Question Has Excited General Contests—Tenants Adopting the Policy of the League—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The position of the government which was to have been vastly improved by Lord Salisbury's speech at the Marion house has been vastly weakened by that performance. The prime minister touched on two questions, and on each his words will be construed as a source of trouble for a long time to his party, or rather to the alliance by which he is maintained in power.

On the Bulgarian question, his housing on Austria to war without having the least notion of going to war himself, has excited general contempt. The Duke of Cambridge wants to continue in power. On the Irish question also his mean attempt to conciliate the fact that he has actually been coining, not the moonlighters, but the landlords; has delighted no one and instead of bringing the government back into the favor of the rank and file, has actually given life to the movement because it shows that at present at least what crime is diminishing he dare not pursue a coercion policy.

Private members of Clarendon have adopted the point of view of the league since he spoke and the tenants in at least five of the large estates, have followed their example. It may be added here that the prosecution of the Nationalist party in Ireland, which might easily seem to show that the government was bent on coercion, is a mere sham, intended only to delude the English public, but the absence from it of all attention to the program of legislation for the next session by means of which Lord Charles Beresford has been so far carried away, is the most remarkable feature about the Salisbury deliverance, and hereby hangs a tale.

The fact is that if Churchill has despatched his forces to India, his promised reforming measure, he has argued the old gang of Tories beyond measure, and it is owing to the representations made by them that the prime minister obstinately evaded all reference to his understanding with regard to the return of the question, still hanging over the field, as Mr. Gladstone forecast it would.

The winter campaign on both sides in fact has now fairly begun in Great Britain, and on the Home Rule side is being carried on with great vigor. The Irish press agency is distributing Home Rule bulletins and leading articles, and the number of converts is already greater than could have been expected.

One great result of the Leeda conference has been to clear the way for the favorable reception of this literature, and of the Irish speakers. Parnell,巢顿, O'Conor, and Healy, are now publicly called for by English and Scotch organizations as are the leaders of the Liberal party themselves.

Complaints used to be made in England of the language used in Irish meetings, but the most violent words now used on the Irish question are from the English. The English have recently been seeing things in silence for themselves, and who are now relating their experiences to their countrymen. On the whole, the situation from this point of view is not encouraging, to the first result of the present struggle, though, of course, very few expect any immediate good, which could only come from a very improbable event, the repudiation of the Liberal dis-

A Real Test of Torpedoes.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Owing to the partial failure of recent experiments the public are beginning to distrust the potency of torpedoes. Experts, however, assert that the recent trials have not been altogether fair, and insist that in order to make them so, the vessels attacked must be under full headway, and that the distance between them must be great. This sort of a test is risky in the extreme, but it is understood that Lord Charles Beresford has offered to find and command a volunteer crew to man the ship attacked. The trials were discontinued, however, on account of the death of one of the Beresford ancestors, who offered an Irish railroad company $40,000 to allow two express trains to come into collision for the amusement of himself and guests.

Turkish Railroads.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—In spite of the sultan's assent to the Jesuitical arrangement of his intention to devote the resources of Turkey, and establish an elaborate system of railroads throughout the country, it is evident that the Turkish government does not intend to set in the master. If the sultan were to do so, he would be compelled to face the backlash of abuse, which by the enormous gratuities demanded, will defeat the various proposals for an extensive American railway scheme now pending. As it is, there is no likelihood that the present plan will be adopted or that new ones will succeed in the future.

Prophetic Conference.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Delegates to the "National Prophecy conference," which opened Yannell hall to-morrow, are arriving in the city in large numbers, the east especially being well represented. A number of clergymen of different denominations have offered to place their pulpits at the disposal of the well-known divines who are to participate in the proceedings. In local religious circles considerable interest is manifested in the convention and its probable work.

Another Kentucky War Immunity.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Nov. 16.—Now we receive here this morning that Perry county is again in a state of terror. The French and Indians, who had been repelled, and their factions are prepared for a desperate fight if an encounter should occur it will involve the entire county, as there are few persons in that section who do not sympathize with either one faction or the other.
